CHARTING A LEGACY

NTULink over the years.

October–December 2017
NTULink magazine is into its 100th edition! We’ve charted NTU’s milestones over 26 years and kept alumni abreast of exciting NTU events on campus, in Singapore and around the world. Here’s to many more years of keeping the NTU alumni family connected.

Issue 1
November 1991
This was the inaugural issue of the NTULink magazine, documenting the milestone transition from Nanyang Technological Institute to Nanyang Technological University. The commemorative ceremony was officiated by Emeritus Senior Minister Goh Chok Tong, who was then Prime Minister of Singapore.

Issue 100
October–December 2017
NTULink magazine goes green—from March 2012, all issues were printed on Forest Stewardship Council (FSC) certified paper, in line with NTU’s efforts in sustainability. Also included in this issue was NTU President Professor Bertil Andersson’s inaugural State of the University Address and an announcement on the setting up of NTU’s new medical school. The issue came with a special pull-out supplement detailing NTU’s sustainability efforts.

Issue 101
January 2005
For the first time, NTU and South West Community Development Council jointly organized a tree planting ceremony in conjunction with the Alumni Day celebrations, which saw a record turnout of 2,600 alumni and guests. New trees were planted at Yunnan Gardens and various other locations on campus.

Issue 102
October–December 2017
The traditional issue of the NTU alumni homecoming can be traced back to 20 August 1994 when the first NTU Alumni Day was held. If these alumni were to visit the NTU campus today, they would be amazed by how much has changed around here!

Special Feature
November 1991
In this issue, NTULink published its first full-length interview with Professor Bertil Andersson, who joined NTU as its Provost in 2007 and was installed as the University’s third President on 1 July 2011.

Issue 77
September 2011
In this issue, NTULink published its first full-length interview with Professor Bertil Andersson, who joined NTU as its Provost in 2007 and was installed as the University’s third President on 1 July 2011.

Issue 60
May 2007
Standing tall on the highest knoll in one-north, NTU’s one-north campus was officially opened by then Singapore President Mr S R Nathan. This issue also highlighted the first-ever NTU Family Day at Sentosa, where 3,000 members of the NTU community gathered for a day of sun, sand and sea.

Issue 67
February 2009
Art and technology collided at the Chingay ‘Wonderland’ Parade 2009, where NTU debuted its float, Draconika—three mystical fire-breathing dragons. The float embodies the University’s multi-disciplinary approach to higher education and was well received by the public. It was even voted as everyone’s favourite float!

Issue 51
January 2005
The University mourned the loss of Professor Lee Sing Kong, a well-loved professor and widely respected academic known for his dedication to education, innovation and alumni engagement.

Issue 79
March–May 2017
NTULink magazine goes green—from March 2012, all issues were printed on Forest Stewardship Council (FSC) certified paper, in line with NTU’s efforts in sustainability. Also included in this issue was NTU President Professor Bertil Andersson’s inaugural State of the University Address and an announcement on the setting up of NTU’s new medical school. The issue came with a special pull-out supplement detailing NTU’s sustainability efforts.

Issue 60
May 2007
Standing tall on the highest knoll in one-north, NTU’s one-north campus was officially opened by then Singapore President Mr S R Nathan. This issue also highlighted the first-ever NTU Family Day at Sentosa, where 3,000 members of the NTU community gathered for a day of sun, sand and sea.

Issue 79
March–May 2017
NTULink magazine goes green—from March 2012, all issues were printed on Forest Stewardship Council (FSC) certified paper, in line with NTU’s efforts in sustainability. Also included in this issue was NTU President Professor Bertil Andersson’s inaugural State of the University Address and an announcement on the setting up of NTU’s new medical school. The issue came with a special pull-out supplement detailing NTU’s sustainability efforts.

Issue 51
January 2005
For the first time, NTU and South West Community Development Council jointly organized a tree planting ceremony in conjunction with the Alumni Day celebrations, which saw a record turnout of 2,600 alumni and guests. New trees were planted at Yunnan Gardens and various other locations on campus.

Issue 98
March–May 2017
The University mourned the loss of Professor Lee Sing Kong, a well-loved professor and widely respected academic known for his dedication to education, innovation and alumni engagement.

Issue 54
November 2005
Coinciding with NTU’s 50th Anniversary, the first ‘Run Round Singapore 2005’, organised by NTU, set four national records. Eight runners, comprising staff, faculty, students and alumni, attempted the 168-kilometre route—the longest ever in Singapore. $168,000 was also raised for the university’s endowment fund to benefit future generations of students.

Issue 67
February 2009
Art and technology collided at the Chingay ‘Wonderland’ Parade 2009, where NTU debuted its float, Draconika—three mystical fire-breathing dragons. The float embodies the University’s multi-disciplinary approach to higher education and was well received by the public. It was even voted as everyone’s favourite float!