

Humanities and Social Sciences 'Lunchtime 101' Lectures presents...

WORLD BANK/IMF 101

The politics and practices of the world's most powerful development organizations

A Public Lecture for NTU
Thursday 14 Sept, LT 19, 12:00 to 1:30 pm

The upcoming World Bank and IMF meetings are being billed as one of the most important events in Singapore this year. Why? What are the World Bank and IMF?

Assistant Professor Jonathan London (Division of Sociology/NTU) will provide a concise history of the development and politics of the World Bank/IMF and examine prominent critiques and defenses of their practices. Professor London is a specialist on globalization and the sociology of economic change.

Nanyang Technological University