BAYER YOUNG ENVIRONMENTAL ENVOY PROGRAM 2013

If you are a tertiary student between 17 to 24 years old, a Singapore citizen, with ideas and action to care for our environment, then take up the challenge to become a Bayer Young Environmental Envoy (BYEE).

BYEE 2013

The BYEE Program is a global environment education program for the youth organized by the Bayer Group and the United Nations Environment Programme with the aim of developing young environmental leaders and boosting the level of environmental awareness among the youth.

Ten to twelve deserving students from Singapore will be chosen to implement their individual project ideas for a greener Singapore, and required to complete a youth environmental leadership camp on June 12-14, 2013. Four Bayer Young Environmental Envoys will join youth delegates from across three continents on a weeklong, all-expense paid study trip to Germany in November 2013. This field trip to Germany provides a unique opportunity to observe best environmental practices and network with a diverse group of like-minded youth.

HOW TO JOIN?

Outline your individual proposal for a project that addresses an environment-related problem in your community/school.

1. What are the objectives of your project? How will the project help to ease the environmental problem?
2. In bullet statements (short, concise phrases), state the activities that form part of your project.
3. Consider some of the practical solutions that various sectors of society are already doing. How does your project add value to existing environmental efforts?
4. What is the budget requirement of your project? Who will provide funding? Please specify if assistance in funding is required.
5. Who will work with you on this project? Name organizations you intend to link up with.
6. What skills, expertise, resources, or network of yours will help you to achieve success in this project?

PROCEDURES / RULES

Application forms are available online: www.byee.bayer.com

All entries must contain:

1. the duly completed applicant’s profile and application form, endorsed by a faculty member or school authority, and an outline of your project proposal
2. a recent passport photo, 35mm wide x 45mm high, in colour (high resolution)
3. scanned image or photocopy of applicant’s Student ID
4. scanned image or photocopy of applicant’s Passport

Incomplete entries will not be processed.

Projects that have been submitted in other competitions will not be accepted for this program.

Entries must reach Bayer (South East Asia) Pte Ltd in Singapore by March 8, 2013.

The judges’ decision is final for all aspects of the competition.

JUDGING AND SELECTION

Qualified applicants will be called for an interview. Candidates will be evaluated and shortlisted based on the content of their project ideas, their leadership qualities, environmental know-how and involvements.

At a mentoring session, the shortlisted candidates will be required to present their project plans to a panel of experts, who will provide advice on the feasibility of their projects, and the desired deliverables.

Where projects are deemed unrealistic or inadequate, the mentors may decide to change the scope of the proposed project and/or its concept and execution.

Shortlisted candidates will be required to attend the Bayer Young Environmental Envoy Eco-Camp on June 12-14, 2013 in Singapore. All charges for accommodation, upkeep and site visits in relation to the camp will be covered by Bayer (South East Asia) Pte Ltd.

Shortlisted candidates should begin their projects not earlier than March 12, 2013 and end not later than August 9, 2013. They will present the results of their implemented projects to a panel of judges at an appointed time. Incomplete projects will not qualify.

Candidates who have completed the Eco-Camp and successfully carried out their projects will be accorded the title Bayer Young Environmental Envoy during an awarding ceremony.

At the same award ceremony, four Bayer Young Environmental Envoys will be named to participate in an all-expense paid study trip to Germany to be held in November 2013.

Bayer will cover all charges for the travel, accommodation, and upkeep of participants for the field trip to Germany.
