Course Code & Title  : CY3001 Professional Attachment
Academic Unit      : 4 AU
Pre-requisite      : None
Course Description : 40 hours per week

Learning Objective
Industrial Orientation is an applied learning process which by exposing the students to real life engineering environment as part of an academic curriculum. The objective of the industrial orientation is to supplement the students’ practical training and to instill in the students the right work attitudes and professionalism so that they could become effective and productive to their respective organizations much sooner than is usual for fresh graduates. Industrial orientation with research attachment at overseas university is allowed.

Learning Outcomes
The programme should have emphasis of applications, management and practical training experience for the students to apply knowledge learned, acquire practical skills, gain interpersonal skills and strengthen work value.