12月17日 (主持: 孙向红) 地点:南楼 711 9:00 - 11:30	南洋理工大学 Presentation title "An Integrative Approach to Studying the Psychology of Cyberspace". Abstract : Online social media are dramatically changing the way how people live, communicate, and think. In this talk, we will present a series of studies that examine the social-psychological aspects of new media by employing traditional psychological methods such as lab experiments, online surveys, and techniques from web computing, data mining, and computational linguistics, to obtain a sound understanding of the psychology of cyberspace. Our studies include cross-cultural differences between Facebook and Renren, online collective behaviors in China, personality expression and perception on Twitter and Weibo, emotional disclosure on social networking sites, and question-asking pattern on Twitter.
