FYP expectations

You are expected to meet up with your NTU supervisors on a regular basis (typically once every 2-3 weeks, the frequency of which depends on your supervisor) to discuss about your FYPs. Discussions using e-mail and telephone cannot effectively replace such face-to-face discussions. Continuous assessment by your supervisor is an important part of your FYP and such regular meetings form one of the means in which such assessment can be made continuously. It is not a one-time assessment.

How you manage your project will also affect your continuous assessment. It is important that you show good project management skills and make steady informed progress in your FYP. Do not leave your FYP work until the last moment when a report submission is due. One can easily differentiate such a student from one who is a consistent worker.
