In this talk, we will discuss if the Reggeon field theory might serve as an effective theory of high energy scattering for strong interaction. Using the Functional Renormalization approach we will present results for Pomeron and Odderon and about the critical properties of the RFT: Flow equation, fixed points conditions, critical exponents evaluation and discuss the effect of the truncation on this analysis. Finally I will discuss physical applications.