

S'pore test for Volvo self-drive buses

SINGAPORE: Swedish carmaker Volvo AB is ready to start trialling full-sized driverless buses, here, helping the city state take a step forward in the race to deploy autonomous public transport. The electric buses, with a capacity close to 80 passengers, would soon begin driving at the campus of Nanyang Technological University before trials were extended to public roads, said the carmaker and its partners yesterday. Agencies
