

HL 3012: THE DISCOURSE OF LOVE

Lecturer: Dr Wernmei Yong Ade

AY2019-2020, Semester II

Learning Objective

This course aims to provide intermediate-to-advanced-level students with an introduction to one of the most represented topics in Western literature.

Content

We begin Plato's Symposium, and move on to recent theorizations and philosophies of love. More than simply addressing thematic concerns, this course will approach love as a philosophy and a discursive practice, as well as address the issues of subjectivity, the Self-Other relation and difference, all of which are central to love. Our final aim is to evaluate the potential for love to serve as a discourse of alterity. We will be covering a variety of discourses and texts: philosophy, psychoanalysis, feminism and literary theory; film and literary works by both male and female authors and poets.

Course Outline

Week	Topics
One	Plato's Symposium : The wisdom of love and introducing the problems of love.
Two	John Donne, selected poems
Three	Edgar Allan Poe Legeia Morella Berenice The Oval Portrait
Four	TS Eliot The Love Song of J Alfred Prufrock Portrait of a Lady
Five	Women in Love I Selected women's poetry: Sexton, Duffy, Leong Liew Geok
Six	Women in Love II Selected women's poetry: Sexton, Duffy, Leong Liew Geok
Seven	Love and Ethics Eros and Psyche

	Luce Irigaray, selected readings
Eight	RECESS WEEK
Nine	Marguerite Duras, Hiroshima Mon Amour
Ten	Roland Barthes A Lover's Discourse Wong Kar Wai In the Mood for Love
Eleven	Nabokov, Lolita
Twelve	Alain Badiou, In Priase of Love Jeanette Winterson, The Passion
Thirteen	Atwood, Handmaid's Tale

Student Assessment

Essay (3,000-3,500): 40%
Class Participation: 10%
Final Exam: 50%

Students need to obtain the following texts. NTU bookshop will not bring in these texts. You will have to purchase them on your own.

Plato, Symposium
Vladimir Nabokov, Lolita
Jeanette Winterson, The Passion
Margaret Atwood, The Handmaid's Tale
Marguerite Duras, Hiroshima Mon Amour

Everything else will be provided for by the lecturer.

Suggested General Reading

Jennie Wang, Novelistic Love in the Platonic Tradition, Rowman & Littlefield Publishers Inc., 1997
Linnell Secomb, Philosophy and Love, Edinburgh University Press, 2007.