

Dr. Chan Ying Lock

D.HTM, Hong Kong Polytechnic University

MBA, Nanyang Technological University

B.Acc, University of Singapore

Dr. Chan Ying Lock started his career as an accountant and auditor in PMM (now KPMG) then moved on to corporate finance with a British merchant bank in Singapore and to venture capital with Transpac Capital part of DBS as its Indonesia country VP based in Jakarta.

In between, Ying Lock spent seven years managing an international publishing business that was a client of the merchant bank.

In 2010 Ying Lock together with Wong Lin Hong were invited by the Tote Board to set up SEHub, Singapore's first statutory impact fund, now called raISE, where he was COO. In 2015 Ying Lock left SEHub to join a private Impact fund Garden Impact Investments as Director of Investments. GII recently reorganised and Ying Lock now heads Oaktree Impact Consulting, previously the impact service arm of GII.

Grounded in financial accounting, Ying Lock's domain knowledge and experience are in helping new businesses manage their growth and expansion, in their financial management. While doing all of this, Ying Lock was also teaching management accounting for 17 years at NTU's Nanyang Business School, and financing for new ventures at NTU Entrepreneurship Academy (NTUpeneur) and NTU School of Biological Sciences (SBS). Ying Lock was also an independent director and audit chairman of listed company Zagro for five years before they delisted.
