NISTH Seed Grant Call

INnovation and TRansformation for Outstanding ECRs (INTRO-ECR)

This grant empowers NTU ECRs (research assistants, research associates, and research fellows) to leverage intra- and inter-university networks to branch out their current research topics with the aim of developing ideas within and beyond their research training. Unlike other grants, this grant will aid to build bottom-up, cross-university, and multidisciplinary connections in the research area.

More details: HERE
NISTH Medical ThinkOut

Being Future Fit: Is Gene Editing the Answer?

In the age of technology, Biomedical technology has seen an exponential rate of growth in the past decades, extending life expectancies, combating illnesses, and generally improving the quality of our lives. In this webinar, we have invited distinguished professors Julian Savulescu and Peter Dröge to speak on the ethics of gene editing towards the purpose of human augmentation.

More details: HERE

Panic Stations in Pedagogy: The Very Real Threat of ChatGPT

17 Feb 2023; 10:00 AM - 11:00 AM

As education continues to evolve, the impact of Artificial Intelligence on teaching and learning practices is increasingly evident. NISTH Fellow, Assistant Professor Andrew Prahl will delve into the pressing issues surrounding ChatGPT, AI, and their implications for educators. The webinar is hosted by the Centre for Teaching, Learning & Pedagogy (CTLP) under the Institute for Pedagogical Innovation, Research & Excellence (InsPIRE).

Learn More →
MakanNight! Talk: Starting-Up? Get tips for success

21 Feb 2023; 12:00 PM - 1:30 PM
Theatre @ Nanyang Innovation Centre Level 3

Organised by NTUitive, the Makan Night Talk, guest speaker, serial entrepreneur, Mr Ajay Sharma, will be discussing the critical issues and challenges faced by start-up companies and strategies for success.

More Details →

Talk by Professor Dame Sally Davies

21 Feb 2023; 10:15 AM - 11:15 AM
LT4 (NS4-02-34)

Women@NTU and POWERS are excited to host a talk by Dame Sally Davies, the first woman to hold the position of UK Chief Medical Officer and Master of Cambridge’s Trinity College. Dame Sally will speak on "Science, Government and the Biggest Threat to Modern Medicine". The talk will be followed by a discussion with the audience!

Learn More →