

INSCAPE

by INLEARNING

LEADING LEARNING SHAPING FUTURE

This month, we turn the spotlight on a powerful truth: teaching is leadership. Whether through classroom innovation, curriculum co-design, or faculty-led conversations at FacTEL, faculty are shaping the future of learning one decision at a time. In this issue, we explore how leadership manifests not only in formal roles but also in everyday pedagogical practice through courageous experimentation, thoughtful reflection, and a willingness to influence change.

Let's celebrate the quiet disruptors, the teaching visionaries, and the faculty leaders guiding us forward.

FACULTY DEVELOPMENT

NIE Leaders Walk the Talk on Innovation with FacTEL

The NIE Senior Leadership team recently participated in the "AI in Action" FacTEL workshop. From building chatbots to exploring topic modelling and testing AI features in Ultra Course View, they rolled up their sleeves and engaged fully. This hands-on involvement reflects a leadership that embraces change, sending a strong signal that empowers the entire institution to take bold steps and innovate with confidence.

Read more about the article here ➔

PEDAGOGICAL INNOVATION

Championing Knowledge Building through Community Building

Dr Teo Chew Lee is driving the Knowledge Building (KB) movement, empowering students and teachers to co-create ideas through curiosity and collaboration! This year's Design Studio turned nature into a playground of inquiry, while the Teacher KB Community celebrated 10 years with 120 educators exploring AI in Education at the National Library Pod..

Read more about the article here ➔

FACULTY ENGAGEMENT

Celebrating Our PDI Leaders: Driving Pedagogical Innovation at NIE!

Our PDI leaders are inspiring faculty across NIE! From leading FacTEL sessions and grant workshops to sparking collaboration and innovative teaching, they're driving change everywhere. Dr Hanin shares how partnering with IN-Learning has empowered her to champion innovation in her department. Spot their life-sized stickers around campus, get to know the leaders, and be inspired!

Read more about the article here ➔

FACULTY ENGAGEMENT

Leading Innovation Together with Our Faculty: Introducing the New IN-Learning Website

Innovation begins with action and now you can lead the change with IN-Learning! Our new IN-Learning website is your one-stop hub for bold ideas, cutting-edge EdTech, innovative pedagogies, and inspiring learning spaces. Partner with us, pilot new projects, and shape the future of teaching and learning at NIE.

Read more about the article here ➔

EDTECH SPOTLIGHT

Using Microsoft Teams for Coaching, Collaboration, and Influence

Discover how educational leaders can harness Microsoft Teams to enhance coaching, foster collaboration, and build influence by creating their own Leadership space in Teams. This article explores key features and plug-in tools to be integrated in Teams like shared calendars, to-do lists, Polly, and OneNote that transform Teams into a powerful digital hub for connected and impactful leadership.

Read more about the article here ➔

MEDIA MAKING

Leading Through Visual Storytelling for Education Leaders

In today's digital age, visual storytelling is a powerful leadership skill. Learn how you can harness media literacy to shape perceptions, inspire change, and lead pedagogical innovation through compelling visuals.

Read more about the article here ➔

FACULTY ENGAGEMENT

Lead the Learning: 10 Ways to Be a Classroom Leader

We spotlighted ten classroom leadership styles every educator can develop whether you're new to NIE or a seasoned faculty member. From cultivating a shared vision to empowering student teachers, these leadership practices support the creation of confident, collaborative, and adaptive learning environments. Use this quick-reference infographic to reflect on your current leadership identity and explore new ways to grow as a teacher, learner, and leader in your classroom.

Read more about the article here ➔

TALK TO US INLEARNING

If your students described your leadership style in one word, what would it be?

Click here to join the talk ➔

