

SEMESTER EXCHANGE

Studying art education at Monash University broadened my perspectives on not only creative teaching but also cultural diversity. I was inspired by new approaches to collaborative learning and a blend of personal practice plus syllabi. Unique to Australia was the engagement with the various Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander nations, each with their own culture, customs, language, and laws—these showcased Australians' deep acknowledgement and appreciation for communities and connection with country through lifestyle and education, which was insightful. Additionally, living in Melbourne was comfortable and familiar, filled with endless exploration opportunities.
