

SPORT SCIENCE & MANAGEMENT (SSM)

Student Life

Immerse in the vibrancy of the NIE community and participate in the myriad of clubs and activities SSM has to offer!

The Sport Science and Management (SSM) Society aims to serve as an effective means of correspondence between students and the staff of SSM. As a society, the aim is to unite all SSM students and establish a cohesive, passionate, and motivated identity. SSM Society works to raise the profile of the programme by providing opportunities for the enrichment and development of the students through the organisation of sporting, academic, and physical activities. SSM Society also works closely with its counterparts from the PESS Club to bring a vibrant and active lifestyle to NIE.

Some sporting activities held over the years include SSM Sports Day, where SSM students across all years come together to participate in games such as dodgeball and captain's ball and, more importantly, to have some casual fun!

To combat the exam stress that SSM students face during the academic year, a highlight of SSM society would be the distribution of exam welfare packs for students.

Additionally, to welcome freshmen into the SSM programme, the SSM society is involved in the planning and executing of the Transition Orientation Programme (TOP). During this programme, freshmen of SSM are brought around NIE and NTU to familiarise themselves with the different facilities available on the campus. The TOP Committee will also plan interactive and fun games to ensure that the freshmen can enjoy themselves during the programme and get to know their coursemates.
