I have been part of the research effort that pioneered the first generation of operational game-theoretic systems for counter-terrorism in many security settings, including for LAX (Los Angeles International Airport), FAMS (US Federal Air Marshals Service), TSA (US Transportation Security Agency), and the US Coast Guard. This research represents the first and only deployed game theoretic systems that provide unpredictability to improve security for key organizations.

Research Assistant
Multi-agent Systems Lab (Victor Lesser)

September 2006 – September 2010
University of Massachusetts, Amherst

I focused on agent-mediated negotiation by extending both theoretical and heuristic bargaining approaches to more realistic settings involving uncertainty, market competition, decommitment, and acquirement of multiple resources. Research results have been applied to sensor networks, distributed streaming processing systems, and cloud computing.

Research Intern
Next Generation Distributed Systems Dept

Summer 2007
IBM T.J.Watson Research Center

I built a negotiation management system for a collaborative stream processing environment (IBM System S).

Fielded and Deployed Research

- ★ PAWS (Protection Assistant for Wildlife Security): PAWS is being tested since 2014 in southeast Asia for assistance in protecting endangered wildlife against poachers. PAWS generates patrol routes by solving a large-scale Stackelberg game, while taking complex geographic constraints into account, with payoff uncertainties and behavior models of poachers.
- ★ PROTECT (Port Resilience Operational / Tactical Enforcement to Combat Terrorism): We have successfully demonstrated PROTECT for randomizing schedules for the US Coast Guard in the port of Boston. PROTECT solves Stackelberg games to provide mixed strategies which allows it to randomize patrols for the US Coast Guard, taking into account weights of different targets and reactions of potential adversaries.
- ★ IRIS (Intelligent Randomization In Scheduling): IRIS has been deployed since October 2009 for randomizing schedules for allocation of Federal Air Marshals (FAMS) to some sectors of international flights. IRIS uses the fastest known algorithm for solving Stackelberg games to provide mixed strategies which allows it to randomize schedules for the FAMS.
- ★ CASA (Collaborative Adaptive Sensing of the Atmosphere): CASA is a new paradigm for detecting and predicting hazardous weather achieved through a distributed, collaborative, adaptive sensing architecture. Our approach of distributed resource allocation based automated negotiation was used in the testbed built in southwestern Oklahoma to allocate sensing resources from 2009.
- ★ Negotiation based Resource Allocation in Distributed Stream Processing: I have built a negotiation management system for dynamic resource allocation and the system is used in IBM's collaborative stream processing system (System S).
